Please see that Craig gets these pictures and someone either emails me or calls me to confirm these pictures have been received...

Craig I just got back last night from being out of town. My friend Cindy told me there was water again on the basement walls on Saturday when it rained.. Here are the pictures I took last night almost 1+ days after it rained.. Definatly still water coming in on both sides. Also if you look at the bottom of some of the pictures the dark water line is more and more visible every time it rains. This are long dark lines which to me tells me water is lying across the inside of the bottom blocks OR the french drain is clogged and water is not running out as it should.. The area by the washer still looks as bad and the area on the far right of the house when you are outside still shows water coming in and now its around the corner (see pic 43 & 44)

Thanks

Also sorry.. I adjust the front door threshold up after we spoke last week and last night I come home to a wet foyer floor once again... I didn't take pictures but I can if you'd like..

thanks
